Let Sugar Cane Mature

If sugar cane is cut too soon the sugar making processes of the plant will be stopped and both the yield and quality of the product will be lowered. Leave the cane standing as long as frost does not threaten. The cool weather of late fall induces the formation of sugar and improves the quality and flavor of the juice. C. K. McQuarrie, state agent for the University of Florida Extension Division, suggests that cane may stand till the latter part of November in almost any section of the state without danger of frost. For syrup making Mr. McQuarrie advises that the cane be topped so as to leave one immature joint for every eight mature joints. The immature joints contain glucose which prevents the syrup from sugaring. Cut the cane and windrow it as soon as possible. Allow it to cure in the windrow for several days or weeks. Cover with leaves or trash of some kind to protect from frost.

A PINE WHOOPING COUGH REMEDY

Mothers, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is just the remedy for your children's cold. The fact is that pine is a quick enemy of cold conditions. Its qualities loosen the mucus in the throat, soothe the lungs and open up the air passages. The combination of honey, s... and pleasant, with the loosening pine quality makes this an ideal cough remedy for children. Each passing year brings for it new friends. A family of growing children cannot afford to be without it. 25c a bottle.

SOONER OR LATER

You will come to the realization of the fact that the best groceries are the cheapest in the end.

Sometimes good groceries cost a little more than the questionable kind. But in the long run it's real economy to buy them.

This isn't a store of bargain selling-of "drives" in joblot eatables. That's not the way to sell pure foods—pure foods are not sold that way.
